The Ontlook For Southern Agriculture.

|American Agriculturist for July.| No doubt a stranger visiting a south ern locality for the tirst time, may see many things which he thinks deserving of criticism, but it is always safe before one criticises anything new in a strange place, to wait until he understands something of the necessities of the case. The whole agricultural practice of the South, necessarily differs greatly from that of the North. Climate has an important influence, which is not at once apparent to a stranger. And when one sees old fields turned out, and cotton and corn grown in crooked beds and furrows, and many other practices which are new and strange, he may justly believe that these ways are thus, because they are the best under the circumstances. But it is quite possible to change one's circumstances in many cases, and after some years' experience with southern agriculture, it seems

The law of compensation often obtains in these cases. What is lost on one side, or in regard to oue particular quality, is often made up on the other. It is said that the people of Athens, on a certain occasion, took it in their heads to laugh at Themistocles, and openly reviie him in the streets, be cause he was ignorant of the accomplishments of fashionable society. When they were through, Themistocies replied to these ignorant and thoughtless railers with the keenest asperity. "It ls true," said he, "I never play npon the inte, but I know how to raise a smail and inconsiderable city to greatness and glory."

DEMOCRATIC TICKET. FOR SENATOR,

HON, SAM E. HILL, or muo county. FOR REPRESENTATIVE, HON, JESSE 8. WILLIAMS.

THE CANDIDATES.

Ohio county has the peculiar honor of presenting to the Senatorial district the candidates of both the great political parties. Capt. Sam E. Hill, the gallant champion of Democracy, is so well and so favorably known to the voters of the three counties, that to say anything in his rogation; still, we cannot let the op that his state, which the pioneers Marshal, by Capt. We will never miss the hustings. The Democracy with a candidate possessing every attribute which conspires to success, reasonably look to a brilliant canvass and a triumphant campaign.

His competitor, Dr. Meador, the the favorites of those corrupt gaugs, Republicau nominee, also an Ohio county man is a gentleman deservedly popular in his immediate neighborhood. Dr. Meador has heretofore borne the standard of his party in success through some hotly-contested political battles. As a neighbor and a citizen we take peculiar pleasure in bearing witness that Dr. Meador is entitled to, and possesses the full measure of confidence of his fellow citizens; is liberal, warm hearted and genial in his associations; his party could scarcely have chosen a candidate more likely to carry its hanner to success.

But as the rival of our chivalrie and indomitable Hill, the nomination of Dr. Meador must be regarded in the light of "love's labor

Hill, and Jesse S. Williams, the conclusion that Democratic suc cess is certain is not unreasonable.

Herschel B. Taylor, the Republican nominee, and the competitor of Mr. Williams, is a young man of strong, native ability, possessing the confidence of all who know him, a gentleman of the first water, honorable in his dealings, and like Wilhams a hard working farmer, and harring his politics, a gentleman who would do honor to any position, social or political, and one who we be lieve would jealously guard the people's interests.

Carson's Nerve Tonic FOR MEN.

This medicine has been used by me in my practice for many years, for the treatment of Nervous Prostruiton, A beent Mindedness, Mental demongement, permatterthic, Impotency and all offictions of the Kidneys and Generalive Organs, with the most graffying results. I have never lost a polient who used it, but it has saved the lives and restored the health of thousands, who, had it not been for its limely help, would have ended their days in limits asyloms or have sank into premature graves. I am now giving up the active practice of medicine, and desire to place this TONIC where it will do the most good. I have therefore had it put up in pill form, so as to send it through the mail in plan wrappers, free from observation, to all parks of the world. Bundreds of lestimonlais of positive cures of cases which have been promonous "lineurable" are now in my office, which were accomplished solely by the use of the NERVE TONIC. A large and varied experience satisfies not that no needleine known to the profession will restore lost vitability more rapidly and permanently from this. Every form of nervous weakness, especially that of the generative organs, such as Spermatorthea, Prostatorrhom, impotency, etc., is completely cured by it, and often by a single box. Below is an indorsement of it by the distinguished editor of Health and lione, Dr. Hale, who knows of its virines by baving used it so successfully in his own large and herative practice.
